ACROSS THE STARS
Hello, Sailor!

May I be the first to welcome you into the service of the Xulthe’en Empire. Your life from now on will be hard, but it also carries with it many rewards. Guaranteed pay, more food than you could want, and, always, a place to call home.

Many enlistments take you to far off places, offering you the opportunity to encounter new alien cultures at first hand. Recruits often travel so widely that they may never see the same port again for years. Alternatively, you could choose to serve on a deep-space monitoring station, providing vital support to our front-line troops. (And don’t worry: all our facilities are tied into the Sat-Net, so you won’t lose touch with your friends!)

Service to the Empire also guarantees you the finest medical care, even after you retire, providing not only for your needs, but also those of your family. All planets within the Empire have first-rate medical facilities, so you needn’t worry about receiving the best of treatment.

Once again, thank you for enlisting, and you can be sure that your new family will give you a warm welcome on your first posting, the
